Anlaby was established in 1839 and is home to a tiny flock of just 500 merino sheep, all of which are direct descendants from the original merino migration in the 1800's. These sheep are cared for to the absolute highest standard possible and therefore produce merino wool of unparalleled quality. All Anlaby products are limited edition 100% Australian made all natural merino wool with no chemicals added and are traditionally combed using the tops only creating a softness unlike any other wool, though still as robust.
